CITY OF BOSTON YEO
LETTER FROM LEADERSHIP
SUMMER 2024

BOUNCING BACK: BIGGER, BETTER & BOLDER THAN EVER

Dear youth, families, partners, and youth supporters of Boston,

Welcome to our Summer 2024 Impact Report. As you dive into the pages, you will find an array of record-breaking metrics and community-centered strategic initiatives that culminated in the hiring, support, and development of 10,427 youth across our neighborhoods. What a feat!

Through this report, what I really hope you take with you are two things:

1. These accomplishments are the result of the work of thousands. From the leadership of our great Mayor who launched our Mayor's Youth Jobs Guarantee at the 2024 State of the City address, to all our employer and resource partners, financial supporters, educators, support staff across BPS and other schools, my team here at YEO, and the parents, guardians, and families supporting their youth through it all: it truly takes a City with a capital C to make it happen. Thanks to all of you!
2. Beyond those numbers, lies real impact on the lives of the youth who engage in summer employment. We are not just helping them get a job, we are giving them opportunities to engage in our communities, grow themselves, start navigating adulthood in a safe and supported way, and see a future where Boston is a home where they can thrive for their entire lives.

As we celebrate our Summer 2024 accomplishments, we are already focused on the future. Our office will double down on career readiness for our youth, technical assistance for our partners, constituent support all around, and will drive equity of opportunity across the City by removing barriers to employment. We will continue to work tirelessly to maximize the reach, quality, and impact of youth employment in Boston.

A final word to the youth of Boston: thank you for engaging with us, investing in yourselves, and continuing to deploy your impressive potential throughout our City. It is an honor for all of us to get to serve you.

To many more successful Summers!

CITY OF BOSTON YEO
EXECUTIVE
SUMMARY
SUMMER 2024

The Launch of futureBOS - A Digital Hub that Creates a Centralized Youth Jobs Application Experience

YEO wants futureBOS to be the starting point of every young person's career exploration journey.

The launch of the futureBOS jobs hub this past summer reflects the investment of an ecosystem of jobs providers dedicated to creating opportunities for young people. For YEO, futureBOS provides young people with a central platform that encompasses all youth jobs opportunities and internships made possible through ongoing collaborations and partnerships across the city. It also provides young people with all the tools needed to get hired, onboarded, and ready to work. For young people, futureBOS is the digital platform that jumpstarts their careers.

YEO took the time to understand what people need most to get youth hired. After hosting focus groups with students, having conversations with school administrators, and gathering insights from program and policy leaders across the city, YEO launched a collection of employment resources centering young people alongside a variety of meaningful and engaging career experiences across different industries.

On futureBOS, you'll find onboarding document checklists available in eleven languages, a step-by-step guide for landing a summer job or internship, an overview of what youth need to secure a work permit, tips for a successful job experience, information about free youth bank accounts, and more. This summer, young people were able to navigate to the futureBOS platform to find thousands of job opportunities that added meaning and enrichment to their career development journeys. The launch of the futureBOS youth jobs portal will continue to be a digital representation of the numerous connections across the ecosystem that make youth jobs possible.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO
SUMMER 2024

Fulfilling the Mayor's Youth Jobs Guarantee by Strengthening Connections with BPS Schools

Establishing renewed focus across the city, within the school district, and in BPS schools, allows us to center equity in everything we do and serve Boston's young people.

This summer, Mayor Michelle Wu reinforced her commitment to the creation of equitable opportunities and Boston Public School students by launching the Mayor's Youth Jobs Guarantee – which promises that every eligible BPS student who wants a youth job can have one. YEO actualized this promise by creating close connections with BPS stakeholders across the district, within schools, and directly to students.

To accomplish this, YEO launched city-wide application and onboarding campaigns that encouraged early applications to job opportunities, and held workshops that provide direct 1:1 application and onboarding support to students in schools.

Through these promotional campaigns and with a series of virtual and in-person youth jobs support workshops, YEO was able to help hundreds of young people and families across BPS schools. This summer, thanks to the support of Boston PIC career specialists, YEO could refer young people to youth jobs, solidifying connections to direct jobs support. To make it easier for young people to secure work permits, we offered health clinics specific to BPS students. This made it easy for BPS students below the age of 16 to secure the health certificates they need to receive clearance to work. All these initiatives contributed to actualizing the Mayor's Youth Jobs Guarantee, by providing tailored investment in uplifting the BPS student community.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO
SUMMER 2024

Mobilizing the Youth Jobs Provider Ecosystem - Strengthening Alignment Across the City

The value of partnerships in expanding access to youth opportunities is central to achieving our mission of developing Boston's future workforce.

Over the summer, YEO strengthened connections within our futureBOS youth jobs ecosystem, YEO's collaborative network of job providers across the private sector, city departments, non-profits, local business and higher-education to align efforts in developing Boston's future workforce.

Through enhanced communication and quarterly convenings with ecosystem leaders, YEO created and enhanced structures that optimized our support to Boston's young people. This summer, ongoing communication across our partnership network allowed for us to seamlessly share information that accurately captures key metrics central to the jobs hiring and onboarding process. By increasing our alignment amongst our partners, we've also been able to center data sharing and transparency as a common best practice, which has allowed YEO to optimize youth jobs placements across our network and inspire increased and renewed vision towards city-wide hiring goals.

YEO also continued to partner closely with the Boston Private Industry Council to expand job offerings to internships within the private-sector, diversifying job industry offerings for young people and increasing the number of employer-paid job-opportunities overall. Our partnership with the Mayor's Office of Immigrant Advancement allowed for us to center focus on key high-needs populations within Boston, which made youth-leadership development opportunities more accessible for more of Boston's young people, regardless of immigration status. Partnerships with the Commonwealth Corporation and YouthWorks allowed us to continue to develop the career skills of Boston's future workers. Ongoing collaborations with YEO and the City of Boston's Center for Working Families offered free and low-cost bank account services and financial literacy trainings to more young people than ever, empowering Boston's youngest workers with financial literacy skills they will need in their futures.

In Conclusion

Our full report captures the entirety of the accomplishments made this summer with a renewed focus and commitment to engaging, developing and employing Boston's young people. YEO is excited about the work that has been done this summer to achieve these goals and looking forward to what the future has in store.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO A RECORD SUMMER SUMMER 2024

YEO employs, develops, and engages Boston's youth. We do this by exposing youth to the workforce and bridging opportunities for personal and professional growth.

A RECORD SUMMER: BIGGER, BETTER, BOLDER

During the 2024 youth employment season, our office doubled down on strengthening connections across the youth jobs ecosystem, partnering closely with Boston Public Schools, and providing young people with resources and direct support that made the youth hiring and onboarding process easier and more accessible. This resulted in a record number of youth being employed across the futureBOS ecosystem.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO EMPLOYING BOSTON'S YOUTH SUMMER 2024

The Employment and Grants teams provide direct employment support to both employer partners and youth workers, and issue grant funding to community-based organizations.

EMPLOYMENT TEAM

This summer, the Employment team played a crucial role in launching YEO's Youth Welcome Center, where our staff was present daily, ready to support young people every step of the way through the application and onboarding processes. We also held five We Hire Youth Events in our office. During these events, Boston youth could visit our office to apply for jobs, be walked through onboarding, and be directly placed into an open position onsite.

FUTUREBOS JOBS PORTAL

After launching a multichannel awareness campaign, more young people than ever applied to multiple jobs on the futureBOS portal. This summer, youth were told to apply to three jobs or more and youth took action, resulting in over 15,000 applications submitted.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO FUNDING YOUTH JOBS SUMMER 2024

GRANT AND COALITION PARTNERSHIP MODEL

YEO administers over $22.6 million in city funding to hundreds of non-profit employer partners to strengthen our communities. Our coalition partnership model offers enhanced support to smaller community-based organizations who need additional operational capacity to facilitate paid youth jobs. By partnering with larger organizations within the futureBOS ecosystem, coalition members are provided with the operational resources they need to succeed.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO ENGAGEMENT & OUTREACH SUMMER 2024

PRESS COVERAGE

YEO's SuccessLink Program was featured in USA Today! The story details how money from youth jobs supports young people and their families.

CITY-WIDE ENGAGEMENT

In February, YEO's Engagement and Outreach Team launched a three-month long youth jobs promotional campaign, expanding awareness of the Mayor's youth jobs program across the city at 25 bus shelters in high-needs areas and on 51 digital advertising screens. Later in March, YEO's City-Wide Jobs Fair saw record attendance, with 1,887 youth visiting the event.

In addition to five Neighborhood Pop-Up Fairs that brought employment opportunities, job readiness resources, and application assistance to underrepresented areas, the Engagement and Outreach Team created onboarding guides, a step-by-step guide to landing a job, information on how to succeed in a new job or internship, and additional resources in eleven different languages, serving demographics of youth that needed additional support.

FORMING AN INCLUSIVE AND WELCOMING WORKFORCE

To support employer partners in running a successful youth jobs program this summer, our office launched a DEI Academy to educate partners on best practices to elevate and advance diversity, equity, and inclusion within Boston's youth workforce. The DEI Academy equips partners with tools to equitably recruit, interview, and hire young people in a way that is reflective of our City.

To capture the overall youth jobs experience for young people, YEO distributed weekly wellness checks via text messages. These wellness checks helped YEO center the youth experience and assess the quality of summer jobs across job sites.

The Career Development Team held three Find Your SPARK workshops this year. These workshops focus on self-reflection, motivation, and goal setting to discover the intent behind a career choice.

ENTREPRENEURIAL EXPLORATION

Three Entrepreneurial Exploration workshops were held in collaboration with the Network for Teaching Entrepreneurship, totaling nine hours of training.

CAREER EXPLORATION

This workshop helps youth recognize personal strengths and challenges to design a career path. Following a recent workshop, 82% of attendees felt more prepared to make healthy and responsible decisions for their career path.

“I gained more knowledge on career exploration and I learned that you can always try new things before settling down and it’s okay to make mistakes, that’s how you become successful.”

This summer, Mayor Michelle Wu made an extraordinary promise, guaranteeing a summer job to every eligible Boston Public School student who wanted one. This promise paid off, as over 50% of youth participants in the 2024 Summer Program were BPS students.

INCREASING BPS ENGAGEMENT

This summer, YEO increased collaboration with Boston Public Schools, hosting a series of workshops and informational sessions. This increased involvement was to ensure that all BPS students are aware of the Summer Jobs Program, Mayor Wu's Youth Jobs Guarantee, and the workforce development resources our office offers.

CITY OF BOSTON YEO BANK ON BOSTON SUMMER 2024

BANK ON BOSTON

This summer, the City of Boston partnered with Metro Credit Union, M&T Bank, and Citizens Bank, to offer futureBOS youth no-fee bank checking accounts. With their own banking accounts, youth can access debit cards, get paid through direct deposit, track their spending, and have complete ownership and control over their finances.

Bank On Boston is part of an initiative to alleviate the financial challenges disproportionately felt by low-income families and youth in Boston, and provide them with easy access to financial education and resources.
